Subject: Lake Pleasant setbacks

I resent picking on owners of waterfront property, I think with some people it's jealousy. I read over some comments that 60% of property on shorelines is privately held and only 17 % of land in Clallam County is privately held. The publicly held land is mostly tied up by the Federal Government (Olympic National Park and National Forest) Other land is DNR (State School Board, etc)and look how poorly it is managed .I know a lot of state land that is harvested and not replanted and let go to weeds. The federal government closes down harvest and closes roads to to minimize management cost but cuts their own throats on the revenue side. I used to go way up in the mountains on logging and enjoyed it but now you have to almost start in civilization and waste a day to get up there. Anyhow, until the plankton that feed the fish in Lake pleasant multiply in the spring and the water warms up, you can look down 12' and see the topography and logs on the bottom. We the owners are not about to pollute what we love and if 35' setback is okay for Lake Sutherland it should be more so for Lake Pleasant. At least so far we aren't having to cut European Milfoil to prevent it from taking over the lake. Terry R. Engel
