I received a phone call today reporting that a man is going around Lake Sutherland taking photos of the docks. His response was that it is for the Shoreline Master Program (SMP) Update.

There will be a SMP Focus Group Discussion on Wednesday, January 26, 2011 from 5:30 - 7:00 p.m. at Vern Burton Community Center. The meeting will be facilitated by the County's consultants on this project, Jim Kramer and Carol MacIlroy.

Last week I received a flyer in the mail from Clallam County announcing the meeting. Contact info:

The flyer states, "We want to get some early input from you about the existing and future uses of our county's shorelines.

At this point I have no opinion of the process or expected outcome. This email is merely to be sure you know about the meeting and where to get more information.

Questions posed by the planners:

*Do you think that things are improving or going in the wrong direction in Clallam County in regard to protecting the shorelines, providing public access, and protecting the rights of the use of private property owners along rivers, creeks, lakes and saltwater shorelines?

What factors do you consider in judging whether things are getting better or worse?

*What would inspire you to participate in Clallam County's effort to protect the ecology of the shorelines, provide public access, support water dependent uses and protect private use of land?
